Carnegie Likviditetsfond - class A - SEK

ISIN: SE0000429854

Management Company: Carnegie Fonder AB

Objectives and investment policy

The objective of Carnegie Likviditetsfond is to generate a stable and positive return.

The fund may invest its assets in interest-bearing transferable securities, money market instruments, fund units and accounts with credit institutions. The fund may also invest in derivatives in order to make the management of the fund more efficient. These may be used to make the management more efficient in order to reduce risks and costs and to increase returns and generate leverage.

The fund's assets shall be invested in interest-bearing securities and money market instruments issued by Nordic governments, municipalities, county councils, credit institutions and companies with a Nordic association. Issuers must have a high credit rating. Investments in securities and money market instruments in foreign currency are hedged against the SEK.

The average duration of interest rates may not exceed 12 months. The average maximum expiration may be a maximum of 24 months for all securities included in the portfolio. The fund may make use of derivatives to reduce foreign exchange risk. This means that the fund attempts to reduce the effects of currency fluctuations.

This fund is suitable for investors seeking a short-term investment with low risk before successively increasing their savings in more risky investments such as equity funds. The fund is also suitable for investors who believe they may need to make use of their savings in the near future and therefore want to assure regular returns without exposure to unnecessary risk.

The fund is actively managed without reference to a benchmark.

The currency of the unit class is SEK.

The fund is traded daily. Deposits into and withdrawals from the fund can normally be made on any weekday.

These units are capitalisation units. Income and capital gains are reinvested. The unit class pays no dividends.

Recommendation

This fund may not be appropriate for investors who plan to withdraw their money within 1 year.

Risk and reward profile

What does this synthetic risk and reward indicator mean?

- The units of class A - SEK are classified in category 1 because the value of the unit may be subject to low variations and consequently the risk of loss and the opportunity of gain may be low.
- The risk category for this unit class was calculated using historical data. The risk category may not be a reliable indicator of the unit class's future risk profile. The risk category shown is not guaranteed and may change over time.
- The seven-category scale is complex, for example 2 is not twice as risky as 1. The gap between 1 and 2 might not be the same as the gap between 5 and 6. A category 1 fund is not a risk-free investment - the risk of losing your money is small, but the chance of making gains is also limited.

Which materially relevant risks are not adequately captured by the synthetic risk and reward indicator?

- Counterparty risk: the risk that a counterparty does not fulfill its obligations to the fund (e.g. not paying an agreed amount or not delivering securities as agreed).

- Liquidity risk: low liquidity might result in that it would be difficult or impossible to buy or sell an investment instrument in a timely manner and that the price could be lower or higher than expected.
- Operational risk: the risk of loss resulting from e.g. system breakdowns, human errors or from external events.
- Interest risk: Investors should be aware that interest-bearing instruments are associated with an interest risk. This means that adjustments in the fixed income market have a direct impact on the fund's underlying assets. If the interest rate increases, the value of the underlying interest rate instruments decreases.
- Derivative risk: if derivatives are used to generate additional returns this can increase the fund's risk and anticipated returns. If derivatives are used for hedging purposes this can lead to a reduction of risk and anticipated returns.
